SYNOPSIS

FIGHTING FROM THE AIR OR IN THE DEEPEST JUNGLE, THE ENEMY MUST BE CRUSHED.

The Japanese have occupied the Philippines early in the Second World War. General Nakamura is determined to see that the glory of the Imperial Japanese Army continues. A small, deadly group of commandos, the American Force led by Colonel Cobra have been sent behind enemy lines to knock out Nakamura's headquarters and disrupt the Japanese plans.

The Filipino people fight valiantly in resisting the Japanese, giving aid to Cobra and his men. There are, however, certain groups of the local people, led by Remas, who are not only collaborating with the Japanese, but even fighting their own countrymen for the Imperial cause. The American Force meets rebel guerillas, suicide attacks and booby trap as they track Remas to the Japanese headquarters. There, they mount an all-out surprise attack and wipe out all the enemy including Remas, leaving Nakamura to commit Hara Kiri.
