SYNOPSIS

HATE KILLS THE KILLER, THERE IS NO ESCAPE.

Rival underworld kingpins. Rex and Bill become deadly enemies when a drug deal between the two goes sour. Raymond and Fats are other gangland figures who take pleasure in brutal violence and are killed one after the other.

In the course of a liquor store robbery, Fats' men kill Michael who was witness to the hold-up. Grieved by the senseless killing, Jack, Michael's brother, decides to take the law into his own hands and goes after Michael's murderers.

Bill tried to exploit Jack's anger by offering his help in the form of weapons and information. This way, Bill would be able to get someone else to do the dirty work in his war against Rex and Rex's allies. Jack refuses his help.

Meanwhile Bill himself goes after Rex and the upper echelons of his organization, who in turn have begun stalking him. Rex's men prove no match for Bill's superior fighting skills and are killed one after the other.

When Raymond and his men kill Jack's father, mother and sister, and then proceed to rape his sister, Jenny, Jack decides to accept Bill's offer and becomes a systematically brutal killing machine.

At the end of the bloodbath, Raymond, Fats and all their men lie dead and Jack is mortally wounded. Meanwhile, Bill has managed to eliminate all the Rex's men and the two bosses meet in a final showdown. When Bills gains the upper hand, Rex offers a truce and an alliance but to no avail. Their furious fight continues until Rex blows himself up with a hand grenade trying to take Bill with him rather than die slowly at the point of Bill's combat knife.
